

Welcome to the second issue of CIC Start Online E-News, a monthly overview of the recent and forthcoming activities of the project whose aim is to embed sustainable building design and refurbishment into practice by supporting academic/industry collaboration in developing and testing innovations.

- ❖ CIC Start Online launch and promotional events attended by 217 delegates in Glasgow, Dumfries, Edinburgh, Aberdeen and Galashiels. Please access the links below to find out more on events held at

[Glasgow Caledonian University
Dumfries](#)
University of Strathclyde Glasgow
University of Edinburgh
The Robert Gordon University
Heriot Watt University
Glasgow School of Art
Edinburgh Napier University
Galashiels

Delegates at the CIC Start Online launch event at Glasgow Caledonian University on 23rd October 2009

If you would like CIC Start Online to advise your organisation/company on its services and support for collaboration between academia and the industry on developing and testing innovations for sustainable building design and refurbishment, please contact Dr Branka Dimitrijevic at Branka@cicstart.org or on 0141 273 1408.

- ❖ Following the above events, 97 delegates have registered with CIC Start Online and received a free set of headphones with a microphone to be able to listen to the CIC Start Online webinars and webcasts. Registration is FREE at the following link: Registration.
- ❖ FREE: Information on your services and products. CIC Start Online members can upload information on products and/or services that they provide for sustainable building design and refurbishment. See information on companies registered with CIC Start Online after its launch on 23rd October 2009. < more
- ❖ FREE: Assistance requests. Scottish based small to medium enterprise are entitled to one to five days of free assistance and advice from academics at the partners' institutions on sustainable building design and refurbishment. < more
- ❖ Competition for joint academic/industry feasibility studies and for 10-days free academic consultancy launched. The submission deadline is 15 January 2010.
- ❖ The project partners' news: Edinburgh Napier University wins the Queen's Anniversary Prize for 2009. <more
- ❖ Contact: Please register with CIC Start Online and contact us at admin@cicstart.org or 0141 273 1411

CIC Start Online is led by Glasgow Caledonian University in collaboration with Edinburgh Napier University, Glasgow School of Art, Heriot Watt University, The Robert Gordon University, University of Edinburgh and University of Strathclyde Glasgow.